

Education breaks the
cycle of poverty.

Degree holders have
access to better jobs
and better dating
partners.

When an entire
society is educated,
productivity
increases.

Educated people
have higher salaries.

Educated women
make better
decisions.

Educated people are
more interested in politics.

Education teaches us
the difference
between right and
wrong.

Maternal death rates
drop significantly in
societies with high
education rates.

A college degree is a requirement for
many jobs.

Education inspires us
to study hard and
study often.

Uneducated people
die earlier.

Educated people are
sexier and more
attractive.

An educated brain is
a happy brain.

Higher education will
help narrow your
interest and refine
your skill set.

Educated women are
less likely to marry
before the age of 18.

Education opens
doors in life. It's the key to success.

Education forces us
to think outside the
box.

Education leads to breakthroughs and
new discoveries.

Educated people
have smarter
children.

Education makes us
better
communicators.

Students know how
to manage their
time.

Education opens our
eyes to new
opportunities.

Educated societies
have lower crime.

Education increases
cultural awareness
and understanding.

1. You wake up in the morning and wash your face. You quickly eat the breakfast that you were made.
2. You get on the bus with your friends. You get to your school that's a safe place for you to learn.
3. You play outside with your friends and the routine continues. This routine looks the same as yours, right?
4. Education is our priority. But for many children around the world, it can't be.
5. Their priority is working for their family, finding food or just simply trying to survive.
6. In Afghanistan, many girls are not even given the opportunity to get an education from an early age. In Niger, children have schools built from straw and mud.
7. And in the Middle East, many refugee children have had a serious break in their education because of the conflict. But what if you could change that?
8. Through supporting Charity Week, you can provide these children with the education they deserve.
9. Join thousands of people across the world who take part every year in Charity Week to raise money for children worldwide.
10. Your support can help build schools in Niger and train mothers on how to avoid malnutrition.
11. You will be helping girls get an education in Afghanistan through funding female teachers.
12. And you'll be providing scholarships to children across various countries in the Middle East who cannot afford an education.
13. Let's unite our powers to do something greater. Support the efforts of Charity Week so you can support children all across the world.
14. Donate today. Join Charity Week at an institution near you.